

ABSTRACT

The present invention addresses the aforementioned needs by providing a mechanism that improves operational efficiency through process automation. In one embodiment, process automation is enabled through rules that can be bound to system objects.